Hi Regina,

So you've finally succumbed to England's cold and damp winters and are fleeing back to warm and sunny Portugal....can't blame you as we had hoped to have had a holiday planned for there by now. As it is we have had to postpone all holiday arrangements to see how I progress with mobility and how quickly the thigh bone heals. This time I don't want to take any risks so that I have a leg that will last me until I die. also I hope to do a deal more travelling before then.

So when do you leave Purac and return home, is it before Christmas? Please let me know such that if I'm able I can come to any "leaving do" that you might arrange. I suspect that you'll be returning you your old employer and settling down to a more "continental" way of working and enjoying siestas and piri-piri chicken a lot more frequently than in England. It will be a pity for you not to see Barrow commissioned at least, as I expect you'll be leaving before then but if you do get the opportunity to visit once it is up and running then take it, as I'm sure it will be a works to be proud of and you and Dick played major roles.

Anyway thanks for your best wishes and you can be sure that I'll be working hard to get back into full mobility as quickly as possible.

All the very best wishes to you and your career in Portugal, keep in touch and let me have a contact no. when you're back home so that we may be able to meet up when my wife and I are in Portugal (the south).

Dave.
